

Reasons to Call Your Provider During Pregnancy

---

Call your provider if you have any of the following signs and symptoms:

- Blood or other fluid leaking from your vagina
- Severe menstrual-like cramping or backache
- Continuous pain, particularly abdominal pain
- Continuous vomiting
- Chills,
- Fever of 101degrees Fahrenheit or higher
- Burning when you urinate
- Continuous headache
- Blurry vision
- Sudden swelling of your hands or face
- 5 or more uterine contractions in 1 hour
- Decreased fetal movement at 24 weeks or more: It is normal for babies to be quiet for short periods of time, and sometimes the movements are smaller in the last month or so of pregnancy when the baby is bigger and not able to stretch out well. If you feel the baby is moving less than usual, sit in a quiet place and monitor the movements. Call your healthcare provider if the baby does not move 4 times in the hour that you are monitoring.

Disclaimer: This document contains information and/or instructional materials developed by the University of Michigan Health System (UMHS) for the typical patient with your condition. It may include links to online content that was not created by UMHS and for which UMHS does not assume responsibility. It does not replace medical advice from your health care provider because your experience may differ from that of the typical patient. Talk to your health care provider if you have any questions about this document, your condition or your treatment plan.

Patient Education by University of Michigan Health System is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 3.0 Unported License. Last Revised 07/2016