Brazilians Take to the Streets to Demand Oust of President

China's Economic Woes Echo In U.S. Corporate Earnings

Federal rules can give hospitals financial incentive to provide "ultra high" therapy

Pentagon To Add Drone Flights

What's News

Fed's Move Is No Sure Thing For Bank Profits

Trump Takes Hard Stand On Immigration Policy

China's Economic Woes Echo In U.S. Corporate Earnings

Federal rules can give hospitals financial incentive to provide "ultra high" therapy
HOTLINE

Counting the Minutes

More than two days after a nursing-home patient removed her feeding tube and died, the hospital didn’t report the incident to the state health department.

The family of the patient, who died March 26 in the nursing home of a New Hampshire hospital, says the patient had been disconnected from her feeding tube when it was disconnected by a hospital employee in the hours before she died. The family wants the state health department to investigate the death, which they say occurred when nursing-home staff left the patient unattended.

The hospital, which is owned by the hospital system, says it is cooperating with the state health department.
The patient’s death is currently being investigated by the state’s medical examiner.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected from her feeding tube for several hours before she died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the
death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the
death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the
death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the
death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the
death.

The family of the patient says they believe the patient
was left unattended for several hours before she died.
The family says the patient had been disconnected
from her feeding tube for several hours before she
died, and that the patient was left unattended for several hours after her feeding tube was disconnected.

The family says they want the state health department
to investigate the death, and they want the hospital to
be held accountable for what happened.

The hospital says it is cooperating with the state health department, and that it is investigating the death.