

Patient Assistance Programs

With the recent economic times, money is short in many people's lives. When you are living with Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis, the expense of ongoing treatment can sometimes become overwhelming. It is very important to talk to your physician about any difficulties you are having with taking your medicine regularly. People who stop taking their medicines are at a much higher risk of flares, hospitalizations, steroid use, and surgeries. There are a number of programs that can help you and your physician keep your medicine going during difficult times. Below is a list of patient assistance programs that may be able to help you continue using your maintenance medicines.
