Partner with us, and set the bar high.
Ask any of Dr. Eagle’s patients, colleagues, or students — his legacy is the least of his concerns. He did not seek out the recognition of a professorship in his name. But, perhaps better than anyone else, he knows the doors that philanthropy can open for an individual and an institution. As he says, “I am the product of philanthropy.”

Dr. Eagle credits the generous gifts of individuals and families with every one of his accomplishments — from the ability to attend college to the chance to complete medical school, to his achievements in research, patient care and teaching. It is because of the great debt he owes to philanthropy that Dr. Eagle works so diligently with donors to identify and realize the great opportunities that lie ahead.

Dr. Eagle’s career is proof of the power of philanthropy. Partner with us, and prove it once again.

As a valued donor partner, the Kim A.
