MICHIGAN DIABETES RESEARCH AND TRAINING CENTER
AND BREHM TOWER DEDICATION ACTIVITIES

WINTER SYMPOSIUM 2010
Friday, April 23, 2010
Palmer Commons, 100 Washtenaw Avenue

8:00 a.m.  Set up posters/Coffee and muffins
8:30 a.m.  Matthias von Herrath, M.D.
           Director of the Center for Type 1 Diabetes Research at La Jolla
           Institute of Allergy and Immunology, Adjunct Professor, Department of Pediatrics, University of California - San Diego “Viruses and Type 1 Diabetes, Good or Bad”

9:15 a.m.  Domenico Accili, M.D., Ph.D.
           Director of the Diabetes & Endocrinology Research Center, Naomi
           Barrie Diabetes Center, Columbia University, New York
           “Making Insulin-Producing Cells: It Takes Guts”

10:00 a.m. Jeffrey Bluestone, Ph.D.
           Director of the Diabetes Center and the Immune Tolerance Network,
           A. W. and Mary Margaret Clausen Distinguished Professor of Medicine
           Pathology, Microbiology and Immunology, University of California -
           San Francisco
           “In Pursuit of an Immunotherapy to Treat Type 1
           Diabetes”

10:45 a.m. Break

11:00 a.m. Christopher Rhodes, Ph.D.
           Research Director of the Kovler Diabetes Center, Chair of the Committee on Molecular Metabolism & Nutrition, Professor of Medicine, Sections of Endocrinology, Diabetes, and Metabolism, University of Chicago
           “How a Pancreatic β-Cell Works, and How It Might Go Wrong in Diabetes According to GWAS”

11:45 a.m. Matthias Hebrok, Ph.D.
           Associate Director of the UCSF Diabetes Center, Hulbut-Johnson Distinguished Professor in Diabetes Research, University of California - San Francisco
           “Embryonic Signaling Pathways Regulate Pancreas Development and Adult Plasticity”

12:30 p.m. Poster Session and Buffet Lunch for All Participants

For further information contact
Barbara Hawkins at 763-2561
hawkinsb@umich.edu